Heroes of the Day.

Browne, chief marshal of the Common-... ...weal of Christ, befeathered and be-feathered, followed Miss Coxey on "Courier," a big white stallion, owned by Citizen Coxey. In his hand he carried one of his cotton banners of peace, and this he waved at the people along the route and bowing and endeavoring to attract as much attention as possible. He was followed by half a dozen weary privates in single file, carrying the devices painted by Browne.

Seven foot-sore musicians, who compose the Commonweal band, tooted their trombones and cornets and beat their drums at a great rate. They marched between Browne and Coxey, and gave imitations of "See the Conquering Hero Comes" and "Hail Columbia."

Coxey, Mrs. Coxey and little "Legal Tender" came next in their phaeton. Coxey drove and Mrs. Coxey held Legal Tender sheltering his baby face from the sun by a silk parasol.

Jesse Coxey, the 18-year-old son of Coxey by his divorced wife, dressed in a cadet uniform of blue and gray, formed the guard of honor for his father and step-mother. He was mounted on a spirited horse. Oklahoma Sam rode up and down the line keeping the men in order, while Robert McMahon of Cumberland, Md., alias "Roy Kirk," Marshal Browne's private secretary, rode on a big black stallion with a dignity befitting his 21 years.

Rank and File.

The rank and file of the army followed; with the band and baggage and commissary wagons piled high with camp equipage. The men had spruced up a bit for the great parade, but they were a sorry-looking set, with their broken shoes and ragged clothes. Every man had a canteen or a tin cup strung over his shoulders, and carried one of Browne's cotton banners of peace on a lath. The Commonwealers marched by twos, each commune separated from the following commune by a baggage wagon.

Philadelphia's Contribution.

The Philadelphia contingent under Christopher Columbus Jones, numbering (?) men, brought up the rear. The members dragged a little car in which they carried their baggage and were headed by another Goddess of Peace, in the person of a woman not so young or so attractive as Miss Coxey, who said her name was Virginia La Valette. She is a Philadelphian and a friend of Marshal Jones, who rode beside her on another stallion of Coxey's. Miss LaValette was dressed in red, white and blue, and rode a bay horse. She, too, wore a liberty cap. Marshal Jones, white bearded and silk tiled, was very gallant to his charge, and acknowledged with a wave of his hat any attention paid her.

"Coxey," a bull pup, was another attraction of the Philadelphia contingent.

Entering Washington.

At 11:20 the procession reached Florida avenue, the northern boundary of the city, and the Commonweal of Christ passed into the promised land without receiving as much as a cheer. The rest of the route to the Capitol was over smooth asphalt pavement, and the Commonwealers appreciated the better marching after hundreds of miles of stony roads.

There were only two places on the route where the weary wanderers were cheered. The first of these was at Fourteenth and W streets, where the so-called Citizens' Reception Committee was assembled, 125 in all, about half of whom were negroes. They were under Citizen Redstone, Coxey's local agent. The other cheering took place at the Ebbitt House, Fourteenth and F streets, where the good-natured crowd applauded the Commonwealers.

Nearing the Capitol.

At 12:10 the procession turned from Fourteenth street into the famous Pennsylvania avenue, which leads to the Capitol. Thousands of people lined the avenue, but there was little confusion, owing to the excellent police precautions.

When the army reached the Capitol at 1 p. m. the sensation was over; the immense crowd on the eastern front of the Capitol saw Coxey, bareheaded, proceed to the steps of the east portico and mount to the first platform, about five steps. Here were stationed Captain Kelly and others officers of the police force. They met the general before he had time to turn his face to the gathered multitude, and was politely informed that he could make no speech at that place.

Coxey's Protest.

Coxey said firmly: "I wish to enter a protest."

"No, sir," firmly said the Captain. "You can take no action here of any kind." The police were courteous, but very firm.

Coxey then, bareheaded as he was, said: "Well, then, I wish to read a programme."

"It cannot be read here," said the officer.

Coxey showed no inclination to yield, and he was unceremoniously hustled off the steps into the middle of the broad plaza in front of the Capitol. He made no physical resistance, but protested all the while, and the crowd gathered around him and obstructed the way somewhat, but it was not a hustle of resistance, but seemed more like curiosity.

The police did not use their clubs; no one was struck, and the immense crowd was handled in the kindliest, yet in the firmest and most effective manner. All who came expecting some serious trouble and there were not a few, were disappointed. Peace reigned throughout the whole demonstration.

The episode then certainly closed for the day, and the affair of Coxey lasted not over 10 minutes. He was taken by the police to the edge of the crowd without any difficulty, and entered his carriage, Captain Kelly said: "Where do you go now, Mr. Coxey?"

"To our new grounds in Southeast Washington," the Industrial leader said. He then gave the army the order to march. The police authorities again showed their courtesy in furnishing him a suitable escort, and the weary, disappointed "Wealers" again started on a hot tramp for a new resting place.

Browne's Bad Break.

Meanwhile in another part of the grounds another scene was being enacted. When the procession had halted on B street south between New Jersey avenue and First street, Browne rode up and down the line waving his "Banner of Peace" and making every effort to obtain the plaudits of the crowd. It was plain that he was getting ready for the coup d'etat.

"What do you intend to do?" demanded a police sergeant in command of the officers stationed with the army.

"I propose to form my men in line and march them up to the Capitol steps," responded Browne, waving his banner, and the sergeant was too astonished to do or say anything. Finally Browne rode up to Coxey's carriage, and, leaning over, asked Coxey: "Are you ready?"

Coxey nodded, and, kissing his wife, stepped out of the carriage. Browne dismounted, took off his big sombrero to Mamie Coxey, and turned to Mamie Coxey, Mrs. Coxey, and turned to Mamie Coxey, with: "You won't be afraid to stay here, will you?" The girl nodded her head, and Browne and Coxey pushed into the crowd in the direction of the big white building. They walked along beside the low stone parapet surrounding the grounds, as if seeking an entrance, followed by a thousand people.

"Jump over the wall," suggested some one. Coxey was quick to take the suggestion, and he leaped quickly over the parapet and made his way like an eel through the dense thickness of humanity to the steps of the Capitol, there to receive his dramatic repulse as elsewhere recorded. Browne followed, evidently with the intention of backing up Coxey, but he became separated from his chief.

Charging the Crowd.

The mounted policemen, a dozen or more, who had been directed to attend Browne through the day, hesitated a moment as the two leaders disappeared amid the shrubbery. Then a blue-coated officer whipped up his horse, dashed across the pavement, over the low parapet and into the grounds. His comrades followed, and into the crowd went this platoon, trampling flowers and shrubs in their mad rush. People scattered right and left, and the foremost officer soon reached the chief marshal, easily distinguishable by his leather coat and white sombrero. The haste of the officer struck Browne, and the shock threw him to one side. He dodged behind a tree and the officers lost sight of him for an instant. People turned this way and that way to escape the half maddened horses of the police. The officers became confused and excited. And some of them drew their clubs and began striking right and left. A dozen heads were cut and bruised in a minute.

Browne dodged between two carriages in a roadway leading through the grounds. In self-protection men in the mob seized the bridles of the horses ridden by the policemen, and attempted to push them back. The police seemed to think that this was an attack on them, and responded with their batons. Browne became wedged in between a line of mounted police and a number of officers on foot, and when one of these tried to seize him he resisted. A shower of blows descended on his shoulders. Browne fought like a tiger, shouting out that he was an American citizen, and had constitutional rights. He was seized by several officers and pushed through the crowd.

Christopher Columbus Jones.

All this happened on the edge of the grass lawn adjoining the House side of the asphalt plaza, and within plain sight of the crowds on the Capitol steps. Old Christopher Columbus Jones, leader of the Philadelphia contingent, attempted to rescue Browne from the officers, and it is said that a number of Coxeyites assisted him. The old man's silk hat was jammed over his ears in a jiffy, and he, too, was placed in custody. With a mounted officer on each side of him, their hands grasping his leather collar, and followed by more officers with Jones, the ...national leader of the Commonweal forces was dragged off to a cell in a police station. Just before they entered the police station Officer Stramline passed his hand over Browne's hips and pulled a small revolver out of his trousers hip pocket.

Browne's Arraignment.

When arraigned, Browne gave his name as Carl Browne, date of his birth, July 4, 1849, at Springfield, Ill., and his occupation that of a journeyman artist. He had $7.25 in cash, several medals and a gold watch. He requested a receipt for these things, but was informed that that was not necessary. When the officer was asked what the charge was, he replied: "Disorderly conduct, and as for myself, why, he assaulted me." Browne was not charged with the assault, however. The pistol he claims to have taken from one of his followers, as he had strictly enjoined them not to carry weapons of any kind, growing the strictness of the laws of the District against carrying concealed weapons. It was a miserable little affair, unloaded and broken. It was perfectly useless, and no charge was preferred against him on this ground.

He was placed in cell No. 1, and had nothing to say except. "I am going to let the American people speak for me." He requested that some one be sent to tell Jesse Coxey to get the army back to camp as quickly and quietly as possible. When Jones was arraigned he gave his name slowly and distinctly, "Christopher Columbus Jones," his age as 59 and his occupation as that of pump builder. He had only 79 cents in money, a paper of pins and a knife. When asked to talk he said: "The press do not know the whole of it." He then said the Lord's prayer to himself, and laid down on the bench in his cell, refusing to say anything else.

Coxey's Retreat.

When Coxey, under police escort, passed out of the Capitol grounds, to rejoin his army, the party was followed by at least 10,000 people, and the officers and those with the crowds who pressed in front made the passage a difficult one. Finally the police and their charge reached the head of the procession on B street directly in front of the residence of Congressman Springer of Illinois. Somebody set up a cheer, and thousands joined in as the head of the Commonweal pushed his way to his carriage. The cheering grew in volume until it seemed that every man, woman and child in that vast assemblage was crying the name of Coxey. Coxey finally managed to get into the carriage with his wife, and the crowd cheered him again and again. "You'll have to start this procession," cried out a policeman. "Speech, speech," came from hundreds of throats, and rising in his phaeton Coxey started to speak. But his voice could be heard by a few only, so he waved his hand for the procession to go ahead, and the line started off with Marshal Broderick in command. Miss Coxey led the way with the two old Commonwealers by her side.

CRIPPLE CREEK.

Latest News from El Paso's Great Gold Camp.

Special to The Gazette.

Cripple Creek, May 1.—It was pay day to-day on the Florence and Cripple Creek railroad, and in consequence Victor was fairly humming throughout the afternoon and evening. Deputy Sheriff Byron quelled many a row, but he could not be everywhere, and in consequence there were a dozen or two scraps on the street.

There is great excitement among the claimholders on Grouse mountain over a strike made by Oscar Allen on lot 61 of the school section. To a Gazette correspondent Mr. Allen stated to-day that at a depth of less than 30 feet he had a vein of quartz over four feet in width, from which he had stuff that assayed over 80 ounces of gold to the ton. He stated further that while he had not fully tested the value of this vein, he had enough information to convince him that he had one of the richest finds ever made in the district. Lot 61, on which this strike was made, is in the extreme northeast corner of the school section, and on the northeast slope of the mountain. Grouse mountain, is known to contain a number of fine-looking veins of quartz, several of which have heretofore been shown to have considerable value, and this present strike will doubtless greatly stimulate prospectors in that section.

There were rumors current for the past few days that the Blue Bird and one or two more of the closed mines would start up to-day. The reports were without foundation, as none of them made a move.

The Little May company are cross-cutting at the bottom of their shaft west in search for a vein thought to be parallel with the Victor.

Mr. J. K. Miller, the new president of the Pharmacist company, while in town a day or two ago stated that work would be resumed on that property as soon as some necessary cleaning up and repairing can be done, which will take about 10 days.

Messrs. Judkins, Kinney & Wolff are working a claim called "Ide," situated in the gulch about half a mile above the Legal Tender mine. They have had to sink through a large amount of wash, but at 50 feet are in a solid formation of porphyry with streaks of quartz running through it all of which shows considerable value.

The lessees of the Gold Coin, situated within the town of Victor, made another carload shipment to-day.

The three new producers on the north side of Bull Hill, the Climax, Snow Bird and Patti Rosa, are making a record for that locality. All are in good ore, which shows evidence of permanency.

The Raven Tunnel and Mining company have just finished another contract of 100 feet on their tunnel in Squaw Gulch. This tunnel when completed will penetrate Raven Hill at a depth of nearly 1,000 feet from the top.

The city council to-night, after a long debate, passed a resolution to pay the water company 75 per cent. of the $5,000 annual rental, the amount agreed on in the original ordinance granting them a franchise. The company agreed to give a bond that the work will be completed in every detail by Sept. 1, after which time the city agrees to accept the same, and the balance of rental will then become due.

A hardly-contested fight appeared tonight at the Topic theater between Ed Davis of Pueblo and Charley Brooks of Iowa. Both men were considered good, and each had many warm supporters. Of the two men, Brooks was the taller, while Davis appeared to be shiftier on his feet. The first round Davis showed to such an advantage that he was picked for a sure winner. Brooks, however, in the second round developed fencing tactics and heavy rushing that bore severely on his antagonist. When time was called he had his man knocked out. The third round only increased the advantage that Brooks had gained, and Davis was virtually whipped at the end of the round. When time was called for the fourth round, a second sufficed for Brooks to knock Davis down. Davis lay for eight seconds, and then raised himself only to be knocked down again. This time he tried to rise, but received a knock-out blow.

The Cripple Creek contingent of the Coxey army, 150 strong, will leave here Thursday noon under command of General Sanders. At Anaconda and Victor they will be joined by troops which will swell the total to 250 men. From Victor they will march to Florence, where they will take a Denver and Rio Grande train to Pueblo. They expect to be joined at Pueblo by 200 others. They paraded here to-day 100 strong, with a large American flag at the head of the procession.

The Independence closed down this morning, and all the men, numbering about 50, were discharged.

FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS.

SENATE.

Washington, May 1.—The session of the Senate to-day occupied only 10 minutes of time. The death of Senator Stockbridge of Michigan was announced by his colleague, Mr. McMillan, and the usual resolutions expressive of the sorrow of the Senate were offered and unanimously agreed to, and the Senate as a further mark of respect to the memory of the dead Senator adjourned.

HOUSE.

The force of Coxey as an attraction was manifested in a marked manner in the hall of the House of Representatives today. Instead of the usual attendance in the galleries there was but a handful of spectators on the benches. The march of the Coxeyites into the grounds and up the hill drew to the south portico, whence they could be easily observed, nearly all of the members of the House, whose comments upon the appearance of the "army," and upon the tactics of the police were as varied almost as the number of spectators.

While this was going on outside the proceedings in the House were almost purely formal. The conference report upon the bill to protect the game and birds in Yellowstone Park was agreed to. The bill prepared by the Dockery commission re-organizing the accounting branch of the Treasury Department, abolishing the Second Comptroller's office, was presented to the House, together with the reports of the commission of experts accompanying it, and made the unfinished business before the committee of the whole. The death of Senator Stockbridge of Michigan together with the action of the Senate thereon, was announced, and after the adoption of suitable resolution, on motion of Mr. Burrows (Rep.) of Michigan the House at 1:35 p. m. adjourned until to-morrow at 12 o'clock.

Gulf Railroad Affairs.

Denver, May 1.—Receiver Trumbull of the Union Pacific, Denver and Gulf, has gone to New York to hold a conference with several people interested in the Gulf bonds and interest charges now past due. In spite of dull times the Gulf line is netting a good surplus every month, and now has over $100,000 in the treasury to be disbursed in the payment of interest charges and in other ways to be decided later. At the conference in New York something of decided interest to the future of the property will probably be determined upon.

Weekly Crop Report.

Washington, May 1.—The weekly telegraphic crop report of the weather bureau published to-day gives detail by States as follows:

Colorado—Slight injury to small grain from high winds.

SOME ELECTIONS.

Republicans Win Indiana Cities and Lose an Ohio Congressman.

Indianapolis, May 1.—Municipal elections were held throughout Indiana to-day. The only cities not voting were Indianapolis and Evansville, which operate under the special charters. Terre Haute elects the whole Republican ticket. Union City gives the usual Republican majority. Bedford gives a clean sweep for the Republicans. South Bend, usually Democratic, goes Republican on the entire ticket by 450. Goshen gives a clean sweep with Republican majorities of from 50 to 300. It is usually Democratic.

At Valpariso, where the Democrats had a majority of 100 two years ago Republicans win by largely increased majorities. Brazil, usually close, goes Republican. Lawrenceburg, usually Democratic, elects the entire Republican ticket and three out of five councilmen. La Porte and Michigan City, usually Democratic, go heavily Republican.

Richmond elects all Republicans by increased majorities, as do Kendallville, Bloomington, Frankfort, Anderson, Muncie, Elwood, Green Castle and Marion. All the gas belt cities show increased Republican majorities. New Albany, usually 1,000 Democratic, elects every Republican but one councilman, and Seymour, another Democratic stronghold, goes Republican. Lafayette goes Republican with a gain of 500.

A Democratic Victory.

Columbus, Ohio, May 1.—The Third Ohio Congressional district in the special election held to-day, has gone Democratic by about the usual majority, 3,000 votes, electing Paul J. Sorg (Dem.) over E. G. Rathbone (Rep.). Sorg's home, Middletown, strongly Republican, gave his 408 plurality, while Hamilton, ex-Governor Campbell's home, carried by the Republicans at the last municipal election, gave him 1,183 plurality, and Dayton, carried by McKinley by 565 votes last fall, went Democratic to-day by 106. The Democrats here are jubilant over the apparent turn in politics in their favor.

THE SEARCH.

Sixty Men With Bloodhounds Beat Up Cheyenne Canon Yesterday.

EMMA THORNBLAD NOT FOUND.

Speculation Concerning the Missing Girl—Other Local News—The New Fire Wagon Has Arrived—Mr. Nourse's Entertainment Last Night.

What has become of Emma Thornblad is the question that is now agitating many people in this city. Is she wandering about bereft of reason or is her lifeless body lying in some recess of lonely Cheyenne canon? It has been the belief for several days that she had taken her life, but now there seems a possibility that she is alive. Yesterday morning about sixty men responded to Marshal Dana's call for aid in making a search of the canon for her. They congregated at the city hall about 8 o'clock and the Rapid Transit company furnished a car to take them to the canon. Policeman Joel Atkinson headed the party and the men voted to call him General Coxey. After arrival at the canon the party broke up into squads of two and three and the South canon was partitioned off and each party made a thorough search up and down for miles. All the morning they worked up above the falls and many went over into the North canon. In the afternoon the sides of the canon were searched. It seems that if the body is there it could hardly have failed to have been found, yet it is possible that they may have passed within twenty feet of it and missed it. The blood hound in the possession of the police and also the hound owned by Mr. Bramlett of Trinidad were taken along, but it is so long since the girl passed that way and there have been rains and snows since that they could do no good. The party returned late in the evening tired and unsuccessful. They are to be commended, however, for their efforts.

It was learned yesterday that the people at the toll house saw the girl Thursday evening about 6 o'clock not far from the toll house. She came in about 4 o'clock and was not seen to leave. They say she had in her hand a bag or box. Information was received that on Friday a woman answering the description of Miss Thornblad was seen south-east of town near the Skinner ranch and that she had a small traveling bag in her hand. This leads Mr. Dana to believe that the girl may be alive and wandering around the country. A search will be made in this direction to-day. A man who claimed to know her quite well says he saw her at Manitou one day last week but does not remember what day it was.

The Gazette had a letter yesterday from a lady in the city, a friend of the lost girl, in which it gave the name of the young man who is reported to have been the cause of the girl's strange condition. The letter states that she was a very estimable Christian girl and that she was led to believe that the young man was single as he passed himself off as an unmarried man. They went together for nearly a year. She has recently been very ill and was cared for at St. Francis hospital. Her friends believe that overwork and what she thought to be the disgrace of having kept company with a married man were the cause of her illness and strange disappearance.

A Gazette representative had a long talk with the young man in the case last evening. It is not thought best to give his name just now as an injustice may be done him. He is in the employ of the Santa Fe in the freight office. He says that he went with the girl a few times mostly to call upon mutual friends. They boarded at the Spaulding house and met frequently and in this way he often went to places with her, mostly at her request. He says he did not attempt to pass himself off as a single man and had told her that he was married. He says he never gave her a pin and that their relations were simply friendly. These statements, however, are denied by the people with whom they were both intimate. He is certainly the least disturbed person in the city in regard to the girl's disappearance, to judge from appearances. He says he never went with the girl but four or five times.

A number of letters have been found among the girl's effects from the young man but they are not very compromising. They are letters such as any man might write to a lady, excepting the general tenor would lead one to believe it was a single man writing them. There is no reference to his wife, who is now living here in the city. All are signed "lovingly," being the only expression of endearment, but that is not an uncommon way of ending a letter. One of her letters was from the father of the young man and it seems that she wrote to him after she learned that the son was married. The old gentleman informed her that the woman who was living with his son was his wife and hoped that the trouble would be settled all right.

Miss Thornblad has relatives in Chicago and it is expected that a brother will come here in a few days to look into the matter.

THE FIRE WAGON.

It Arrived Yesterday and Received Much Attention.

The new fire department wagon arrived yesterday and there was great commotion at the city hall. The old citizens came over to have a look at it, the women citizens passed shyly by and glanced at it out of the corners of the eye, while the young citizens of the future just camped for the day. The wagon was brought up to the city hall and will be put in use as soon as accepted by the council committee. The wagon is a beauty, but where the makers crowded in $2000 on its cost is the question. It weighs 3100 pounds, or 59 cents a pound. The wheels are very heavy and painted red. The body is black and in metal letters on the driver's seat is printed "C. S. F. D. No. 1." Under the driver's seat is a 50-gallon tank for the chemical and attached to this is 200 feet of rubber hose.—In the wagon are 1200 feet of cotton hose for use in attaching to the hydrants. On the back step is a 2-gallon Babcock chemical fire extinguisher and the two chemical tanks for the acid. The wagon also carries two 11-foot ladders, two pikes, two axes, lanterns, etc.

The harness for the horses was being put in shape yesterday and will be used in a few days. Everything will be in ship shape in a short time and the department can get down to practice. Chief Johnson has about concluded, however, that he cannot manage the department effectively with the present force and there would seem to be some reason in what he says, when it comes to laying a double line of hose, as the driver must keep to his horses. This was what many citizens agreed when the department was organized as at present. The chief has concluded to ask the council at its meeting next Monday night to give him two more men.

Robert Nourse.

The audience which gathered at the First Baptist church last evening to hear Robert Nourse of Washington give his lecture and entertainment last night was not large. It was fully appreciated by the audience, however. Mr. Nourse has a fine presence and a magnificent voice. He is a better actor than lecturer and his readings and stories were the best part of the entertainment. The first part of the entertainment consists of a reading from "The Bells," a play made popular in late years by Henry Irving. It tells of the workings in the brain of the Burgomaster Mathias which finally revealed the crime committed fifteen years before, and the psychological effects of the crime. The lecture portion follows and Mr. Nourse explains the punishment that always follows a crime. He believes that debt is the greatest incentive to crimes and gives many instances, including the famous Webster-Parkman crime. The great panic could never have occurred had the people not been in debt and the best remedy for it is for the people to begin paying up. The lecture concludes with the closing act of the play in which the crime is fully revealed by Mathias while in a hypnotic state.

REV. J. D. RANKIN MARRIED.

Brilliant Ceremony at the Wedding of the Popular Preacher.

Chicago, May 1.—The first United Presbyterian church was crowded to the doors this evening upon the occasion of the marriage of Miss Daisy B. Meloy, daughter of Rev. Dr. W. T. Meloy, pastor of the church, to Rev. James D. Rankin, pastor of the United Presbyterian church of Denver. The ceremony was performed by Revs. Drs. Meloy and Rankin, respectively father of the bride and groom, assisted by Rev. H. H. Bell, of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Rev. Dr. J. A. Duff, of Chicago. Laura Johnson was maid of honor, and the bride was attended by Jennie Bacon and Maude Howland. Two petite flower girls strewed roses before the bride as she passed up the aisle to the sanctuary. W. McCullough, of Denver, was best man. The bridal toilet was of heavy white satin, covered with rare lace, while the tulle veil was decorated with sprays of lily of the valley. A bouquet of the same flowers was also carried by the bride. After the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors, and for which 1,000 invitations had been issued. At 11 o'clock the couple left for Oregon and the Pacific coast. They will be at home in Denver on June 10.

A STRIKE ENDED.

The Great Northern Employees are Again at Work.

Minneapolis, May 1.—The strike on the Great Northern railroad, which involved its 5,000 employes on its 3,700 miles of line, and which has suspended traffic, both freight and passenger, for two weeks, is over.

This was accomplished by adjudication of the claims of the employes and the road, rather than by arbitration, the court being a joint committee of the representatives of leading business organizations. The result of the conference, which lasted until late in the evening, was that the strikers gain 19-20 of the points made. President Hill conceded without argument the restoration of the wages of the engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen, boilermakers and trackmen, sectionmen and blacksmiths. The reduction in the cases of these men was 10 per cent.

The committee also took up the cases of the car inspectors, car repairers, oilers, operators, etc. In these cases the wages of the men are also practically restored, there being only minor points of difference on which there could be no serious disagreement.

RIOTS IN CLEVELAND.

Several Persons Were Injured by the Mobs Yesterday.

Cleveland, Ohio, May 1.—Riotous demonstrations have been the order of the day, and several persons have been injured, while a number have had very narrow escapes from death. A meeting attended by between 10,000 and 15,000 men was held in the public square in the afternoon.

Some 5,000 men marched over to the West Side. On the viaduct a motorman incurred the displeasure of the crowd and they attacked the car with clubs, almost completely wrecking it. The motorman was knocked down with a brick. At the West Side market house the mob again became angry at the movement of a car. Revolvers were drawn and shots filled the air. There was a panic on the train, and men and women tumbled off the car or crawled under the seats. On Superior street, John Stribinger, driver for William Edwards & Co., who failed to stop his wagon on demand, was struck by a bolt on the jaw and seriously injured.

Another section of the mob visited the works of the H. P. Nail company. When the workmen refused to come out bricks stones and clubs were thrown through the windows. The men acted like wild men, and no attempt was made to check them in their work. When they were satisfied they could accomplish nothing they withdrew. The crowds were almost entirely made up of idle foreigners and unorganized workmen, as all the labor unions had taken action against participating in any demonstration on May Day.

SOME FACTS ABOUT OUR SCHOOLS.

The bonded indebtedness of this school district, from figures furnished by the secretary, is now $144,000. Of this amount, $9,000 have been advertised for, for redemption, leaving $135,000 which are drawing interest at the rate of 6 per cent. The interest charge on these is therefore $8,100 per year.

The district has also about $35,000 out in unpaid warrants, which are being taken care of by the banks.

Of the bonds above mentioned, $10,000 were issued in 1885 for building on the Garfield and Lincoln school houses. Of this amount $11,000 has been either paid or provided for. An additional issue of $15,000 was made in 1888, for the addition to the Liller building; and an issue of $100,000 was made in 1892, for the Lowell school and the High school. The Lowell school, however, was built out of the proceeds of a special levy and the amount obtained from the sale of lots belonging to the district on Cascade avenue. The High school, according to the report published last July, cost $104,000, with bell, clock, and furnishings complete.

To sum up, during the eight years which cover Mr. Hemenway's term of service in the board, the yearly taxes, the sales of lots, the special levy, and a bond issue of $155,000 have obtained for the district two additions, to the Garfield and Liller schools; one four room building, the Lincoln; an eight room building, the Lowell; and the High school.

In passing a judgment on the financial policy of the board it is necessary to consider whether this money has been expended to the best advantage. Has it been put where it will do the greatest good to the greatest number?

In order to get at this, we have obtained a statement of the pupils accommodated in the different school buildings, with the amount of the floor space in each. Here are the figures:

The Garfield, with a floor space in rooms of about 6000 square feet, has an average attendance of about 350;

The Liller, with a floor space in rooms of about 6600 square feet, has an average attendance of about 310;

The Lowell, with a floor space of about 6600 square feet in rooms, has an average attendance of about 310;

The Lincoln, with a floor space of about 3300 square feet in rooms, has an average attendance of about 152;

The High school, with a floor space of about 21,000 square feet in rooms, has an average attendance in the four High school classes of about 125, of whom fifteen are in the graduating class.

The High school building was put up for High school purposes exclusively, and is not intended nor well adapted for the accommodation of grade pupils. If it were used for High school purposes exclusively, as was intended, we should have the spectacle of 125 pupils occupying as much space as 970 pupils occupy in the three largest grade schools.

The necessities of the case, however, have compelled the board to put some of the grades in the High school building. At first it was decided, in order to keep up the fiction of using the building only for a High school, to take the eighth grade out of all the grammar schools, and put it in the High school as a fifth class. This relieved the grade schools of about 105 pupils. This grade still pursues the grammar school course, but is taught by High school teachers, and the results are not of course as satisfactory as they would be if the grade were taught in classes by single teachers, as the other grades are.

It was found, after a time, that the grade schools were still so crowded that it was necessary to use more of the room to accommodate them. Four additional grades were therefore put into the High school, one of them in the basement. These grades have each its own teacher, and are under the supervision of the principal of the Garfield school.

There are in the building, then, at the present time, the following numbers: High school proper, 125; Eighth grade, 105; four lower grades, about 110, a total of 570. The High school building now accommodates, after a fashion, less than two-fifths as many pupils as are accommodated better in the same space in the three largest grade schools.

Still further, the Garfield school has been so overcrowded that the board has had to rent a little wooden building for an annex, where four grades are now placed. This building is not at all suited to its purpose, the want of ventilation being especially apparent. Every pupil who enters the schools below the fourth grade, and who lives north of Kiowa street, now has to spend in this annex, with its bad ventilation and inadequate facilities, at least one year, possibly two, and possibly even three. The Garfield school is thus, like ancient Gaul, divided into three parts, in three different buildings.

About one in fifty of the pupils in our schools ever gets into the High school; about one in 150 is graduated therefrom. Is it good financial management to spend $100,000 for the benefit of less than 2 per cent. of our children, and leave 20 per cent. unprovided with proper accommodations? This is the sort of management which has prevailed, and which the people of this city are now asked to endorse. Perhaps they will endorse it, but we hardly think they will.

In all this, we have said nothing of the sentimental or the advertising value of the splendid building which is such an ornament to our city. Such a value it undoubtedly has. But if it was necessary to erect a building of such a size, would it not have been much better to build it so that some of the grades might have been properly accommodated in it? Or, if it was neccessary to have a building for high school purposes exclusively, would it not have been better to spend $60,000 on such a building, and put the rest of the $100,000 into a good grade building? It seems to us that only one answer is possible.

We are entirely sensible of the value of higher education, and we are glad to have a fine building for the High school; but it does seem to us to have been bad management to put all the money that was available into a single building, intended exclusively for High school use, while leaving three or four hundred children unprovided for. It was still worse management to buy a lot from a member of the board which was in an unsuitable place for a school, and to pay for it a good deal more than it was worth; but "that is another story."

The women in New York State who are opposed to women suffrage have formed an organization, and are working hard to prevent the constitutional convention from striking out the word "male" from the clause which describes the qualifications of voters. We believe that men are generally inclined, in this country, to give the women anything they want; and if the general sentiment among them seems to be in favor of suffrage, they will probably get it, as they did here in Colorado; but if any considerable number of them protest against it, it seems probable that the constitution of New York will be allowed to stand as it is, in that particular.

We print this morning on another page the monthly statement of the City Clerk and City Treasurer. The value of this report is really inestimable. If we had had such a report published regularly every month two years ago, the city would not have lost $6,000 by the action of the City Clerk at that time. As our readers will see by examining the statement this morning, this amount is still carried on the books, and it ought to be an effectual reminder of the value of a regular public statement of this kind. Such a publication ought to be required by law; but our city council has been wise enough to do the right thing without legal compulsion.

It is said by no less a person than Senator Brice that Mr. Cleveland is now against the income tax. Certainly new efforts are now in progress to have that feature of the tariff bill stricken out. And yet it was Mr. Cleveland himself who first announced to the country in his message, before Congress had met, that they were going to pass a bill with the income tax in it, in the form of a tax upon corporations. That he knew beforehand just what they were going to do was of course due to his omniscience. Perhaps he knows now what they are going to do. If he does, he has a monopoly of the knowledge.

The British fleet of vessels to protect the seals in Bering sea, although it is much smaller than the American fleet, that is to perform similar duty, has got to work first. None of the American vessels is yet on the ground, we believe, while two British vessels are now performing patrol duty.

That useless and expensive extra session of our legislature changed the registration law so that now the names of registered electors who did not vote are not to be published, but the county clerk is to write a personal letter to each one and send it through the mail. This will cost the county a good deal more in clerk hire and postage than the printing cost, and will not be nearly so sure or satisfactory a way of reaching the persons concerned. But that is a sample of extra session economy.

General Review.

[Bus]iness among the mining brokers was [lig]ht and consequently the sales amounted [to 185,950] shares, which is a considerable [falli]ng off from the day previous. But [mos]t of the brokers were bidding, and the [earl]y closing out of respect for Slaughter [Bass]ett, whose funeral occurred at 4 [o'cloc]k, tended to lessen the volume of [busin]ess for the day. There was considerable inquiry for Anaconda, and consequently that stock showed strength. One [offe]r for a block of 20,000 at 23. Calumet was also a little stronger, as a result of inquiry. Combination and Golden [Eagl]e, at the largest sales yesterday. [Th]e Jack Pot and Golden Eagle as close[ly]. Jack Pot seems to be in good [dem]and.

[Denv]er, May 1—The new officers for the [ensu]ing year were installed to-day on the [min]ing exchange. The new caller, [...] Parsons, who is also the secretary [and] treasurer, is a young man who has [been] in the city three years, coming here [from] New York City. He is well recommended. D. I. Ezekiel, the president, [is kno]wn to every Colorado mining man. [He h]as been interested in mines for 10 [years] and runs large interests in Summit [coun]ty, Boulder county, Cripple Creek [and] Fairplay county. Vice President Pettingell is a prominent Colorado Springs [busi]nessman. There were no sales at the [pit] to-day.

Nathan Gegg and E. C. Morey leave for Granite, Colo., this evening for the purpose of examining the mines of the Silverhorn company, located in that camp.—(Denver Times.

The Cochiti, N. M., district now boasts four towns—Allerton, Eagle, Kent and Barrego—the latter only five days old. All these towns are making rapid strides forward, with Eagle City in the lead.

The six car loads of ore already shipped from Cochiti to the Socorro smelter gave returns of over $100 per ton in gold. These six cars were shipped from a 16-foot ledge in the Crown Point mine, and the vein is exposed for nearly 1,000 feet.

Billie Wanner commenced work on the Ella Helene mine yesterday. The Ella Helene is situated in the city of Cripple Creek between Fourth and Fifth streets above Bennett avenue. The ore assays from $8 to $600 and the vein is seven feet wide.

A plat was filed at the recorder's office yesterday of M. Nulman's addition to Cripple Creek, it being a subdivision of the United States mineral patent survey, No. 8060, and comprising a portion of the southeast quarter of the northeast quarter and the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter of section 14.

Great quantities of Independence ore now daily passes through the town of Cripple Creek on its way to Midland. Mr. W. S. Stratton, the owner of the mine, says that his idea now is to develop that great property, but in so doing he cannot help breaking an abundance of ore. He says that the Independence will not become a great producer until after the arrival of the railroad in camp.—(Crusher.

A bond and lease has been given to Attorney E. G. Vanatta by the Matoa Mining and Milling company for one year with the privilege of two, on the Half Moon and Harlan H. lode claims. These claims are situated on the West Side of Globe hill and in a good location. Mr. Vanatta expects to open up one of the richest leads in camp on these claims and will be shipping ore inside of a month, if he reckons correctly.

CONCERNING HOME TEACHERS.

A few facts were given in yesterday's GAZETTE in relation to the policy of the school board, so far as buildings and finances are concerned. We showed that the board has erected, at a cost of $100,000, a building designed entirely for high school purposes, and unsuitable for other purposes, but which now has to be used for grade pupils and will probably continue to be used for that purpose during the next decade at least. The result is that the high school feels crowded, the grades are not accommodated, the design of the building cannot be carried out, and nobody is satisfied.

There is another part of the policy of the board which seems to us fully as obnoxious to criticism as their financial management—their policy in regard to teachers. We do not propose to use any names, and we wish it understood that none of the teachers concerned has ever spoken to anybody connected with THE GAZETTE in relation to this matter.

The policy of the board has been to pay all teachers according to length of service, without regard to their success or failure as teachers. This would be a good enough way, perhaps, if they would retain only those teachers who have made a pronounced success; but teachers are often retained who have not made a success. It may sometimes be good policy to retain a teacher who has not altogether succeeded in her first year, because she gives promise of doing better; but it is hardly good policy to pay such a one exactly the same salary as one who has succeeded splendidly, and is decidedly more desirable.

This, however, is not so important as the policy of the board in relation to promotions. In repeated instances, the board has refused to promote home teachers who were entirely capable to positions commanding more salary, and has discriminated in favor of teachers from abroad. Under the present policy of the board, there is no inducement for any of our home teachers to fit themselves for higher work. So long as they do not make an absolute failure, they are reasonably sure of retaining their positions in the grades, and they are also very sure that there is no prospect of obtaining any better position. A teacher from Louisville, or Boston, or London, has a much better chance of obtaining a position with a good salary than any teacher already here, who has done good work in the grades and who desires advancement.

We believe in getting the best teachers obtainable, both for our grade schools and our high school, but we do not believe that a teacher from the East—a young woman just graduated from Vassar or Wellesley for instance—is by virtue of that fact more likely to make a success than a teacher already here who has proved her capacity and made a success in grade work, and who has taken pains to fit herself by special study for higher work.

If anyone asks what all this has to do with the present election, we would say that Mr. Hemenway has voted uniformly with the majority of the board in these matters—has indeed often given the casting vote which made this policy effectual. Mr. Mathews is for home teachers first, when they have proved themselves capable. We refer to this fact, not because we desire to impugn Mr. Hemenway's motives at all, for we believe he has acted according to his judgment; but because we do not believe in the policy which he has helped to carry out. That policy the voters are now asked to indorse. If they choose to indorse it, after having the facts presented to them, well and good; the majority rules. Our desire is to put the facts before the people so that they may know just what they are asked to vote for.

While we have no sympathy with the methods of citizen Coxey, we have no sympathy either for citizen Cleveland now that Washington is invaded. Cleveland is directly responsible for Coxey, and if anybody is bothered by the Coxey movement, he ought to be the man.

Mr. Sorg of the Third district of Ohio now enjoys the unique distinction of being about the only Democrat in the United States who has been elected to any important office this year. The district is overwhelmingly Democratic, to be sure, but so was the Tenth New York which elected Mr. Quigg. Mr. Sorg must be a very popular man among his constituents. He is to be congratulated.

After the Washington police have had a little more experience in the handling of Coxeyites, they may be able to do it better; at least, we hope so. Not to speak of any of the other aspects of the case, it will not pay to make martyrs of these proletarians.

The death of Senator Stockbridge gives another Governor a Senatorial appointment. Politically, it will make no difference, as Governor Rich is a Republican. The 53d Congress has lost more members by death than any other Congress in our history.

Indiana has fallen in with the Republican procession in good style, and will keep step to the music of the Union for the next few years at least. It was what we expected.

It is to be hoped that the Montana and Idaho miners at Cripple Creek will join the Coxey army, and get east at least as far as Kansas.

The settlement of the Great Northern strike is a good thing for all parties concerned. Now let us hope that it will stay settled.

Of Interest to Wheelmen.

The Sunday bicyclists in England have become a vast army. Lord William Cecil, rector of Hatfield, proposes to bring the Church into direct relations with this new class of the population. As an inducement to cyclists to visit his church he has provided special seats for their use, with a due equipment of prayer and hymn books, and has made arrangements whereby all machines are to be kept under lock and key while the riders are at their devotions. Notices to this effect have been posted at all the inns. Lord Cecil is the second son of Lord Salisbury.

THE GOOD OLD TIMES.

An Honest Shipbuilder Tells About Them in Ohio.

Last week I had occasion to go over to Long Island on business and tumbled into a regular old free trade nest where three free trade papers are published in a couple of villages of 30,000 inhabitants in the township of Hempstead.

I felt sorry for the farmers there and particularly for the farmers' wives, because those papers never speak the truth and would never tell the women folks that millions of dollars had been saved to the country every year by protection on eggs. People down there have felt the hard times pinch, too, and mighty! all they can get for their farm stuffs without having to sell in New York in competition with potatoes from Bermuda and Europe and cabbages from Dutchland.

An old man who had an eye as bright as a new dollar and wits as keen as the edge of a razor, said: "There are lots of young fellows around here who talk of good times and hard times, but they haven't been alive long enough to know anything about it. I let them talk, and I listen, and sometimes I tell them of the good old Democratic times we had nearly 50 years ago."

"How were the times then?" I asked.

"Well, I read a good deal about them, but it is not often that one has a chance to talk with a man who has seen real good old Democratic days."

He looked at me pretty sharply, as if sizing me up, and then began:

"I am an old ship's carpenter and a shipbuilder. That's my trade. I was born right here in Freeport, but I've moved around a good bit and seen something. For quite a number of years I lived in Ohio, and there I had a contract to build a vessel for the lake trade. The country back of Ohio wasn't opened up then as it is now, and the lake trade was not so large, but still there was something doing. Well, I got this contract. The owner supplied all the lumber and stuff himself, and his contract with me was to pay me 10 shillings for each and every day I worked."

The old salt looked around, thought he'd try some cider and said: "Ten shillings was pretty good wages, my boys, that long time back, when the country wasn't what it is today, and then we had a Democratic government and plenty of free trade too. Yes, sir, 10 shillings a day was pretty good pay."

He paused, took a sip at the cider and a pull at his pipe. His eyes began to twinkle as he asked, "How often do you think I got paid?"

We waited for him to answer his own question, which he did as follows:

"I'll tell you. My pay was 10 shillings a day, and good pay too. I worked for months in and months out on that vessel and put in good work on her, but from the day I began to the day I finished I received never a single shilling," bringing his fist down with a whack on the counter that made the windows rattle.

"Not a d——d shilling did I ever get," he repeated, "not a shilling."

"Didn't he pay you anything at all then for your work?"

"Oh, yes, he paid me. He paid all he owed me. You see he had a store, and every day's pay that I earned I had to take out in goods at his store and at his price. I was loaded up with wheat, but thank heaven it was very cheap as in those free trade [illegible] I'd have [illegible] [illegible] have been bollering for. Give 'em all they want of 'em," he said, "I've had my share. Let 'em [illegible] and learn it as I did."

VIEWS OF VOORHEES.

THE TALL SYCAMORE FAVORS SPEEDY CLOSURE ON THE WILSON BILL.

He Says a Stupendous Revival of Business Will Follow Its Passage—A Legacy of the Old Timber Culture Act—Stirred Up by Coxey's Army.

WASHINGTON, April 27. [Special.] In spite of losses and crosses, laps and slams, the friends of the Wilson bill are once more full of hope that it will pass the senate, and that at a tolerably early day. The word early must be construed according to senatorial custom and may mean any time in June or July. Senator Voorhees declines to make a guess at the day, but talks with a good deal of freedom about the improved chances of the bill. "There is," said he, "a great deal of impatience among the people. In fact, reformers are always an impatient set, especially young ones. Here is a letter I just received from a young Democratic editor in our state, a kindly letter, but showing great impatience. It is a specimen of many. I had to write a letter to some of those gentlemen not long ago in which I pointed out to them that the world was not made in a day, although there was no lack of a reliable majority. It is a habit of reformers, and especially American reformers, to want everything done right away. They do not stop to consider that if this congress so much as makes a good start in tariff reform, no matter how small the reduction, it will be a wonderful gain on the situation a few years ago, and then [illegible] reason to say that the tariff should be revised at all except upward.

Senator Voorhees Upon Reform.

"You remember all about that great temperance excitement that swept over the west in the early fifties, when they had things and camp meetings and gatherings of I don't know how many thousands of people in various towns, and you remember how the speakers nearly all predicted that this movement would sweep all before it and abolish the traffic. Plenty of sensible men staked their reputation on predictions that in 10 years there would not be a whisky shop in the state. Well, four then 10 years have past, and it is a matter of dispute whether there are not as many saloons in Indiana in proportion to the people as there were when the Sons of Temperance and their allies were making such a racket.

"It has been the same way with every reform, but there is no need of our going so slow with this bill. Everybody can see that the Republicans are just talking to postpone action as long as possible, but they may make a mistake about that. The longer this bill is delayed, if it finally becomes a law, the more sudden and stupendous will be the revival of business which follows. Confidence in England will force it, as the shelves of the merchants are pretty near bare, and it is to be hoped that the farmers have about worn out their old clothes. In fact, if we have good crops and get any kind of prices for them, there will be a great revival. So that as it may, however, I am for bringing this debate to a close when reasonable time has been given. I would vote for a stringent closure rule."

A Complicated Problem.

The senate committee on public lands is struggling with a complicated problem, which is a legacy of the old timber culture act and incidentally involves some tolerably prominent men, including such ex-lecturers in the political world as Colonel Phil Thompson and "Forerunner" Redstone. It will be remembered that before the limits of fertile and arid land were so well defined as now congress passed a law which granting pretty large areas to all who would plant part in timber and cultivate for a term of years. The act was so loosely worded that great abuses arose under it, as the methods of proof provided for were very defective, and if construed literally there was scarcely a limit to the amount one man could hold.

On the last day of the Fifty-first congress, therefore, an act was rushed through repealing the timber culture act, but it so [illegible] that this timber repeal bill was in [illegible] as loosely worded as the [illegible], it being defective in providing for disputed claims. It soon appeared that an immense number of contestants would appeal to the land department, and that several of these contests involved the titles to important town sites, as many large parts of the timber culture claims had been settled with great rapidity. Secretary Noble decided that the repeal of the law put an end to all contests under it; that the contestants had no standing, and the men in possession must hold. This gave occasion for a flood of relief bills, and at this session Senator Blackburn introduced a bill to so far amend the repeal act as to give the contestants an inchoate right and a standing in court.

The vigorous opposition which sprang up and the way in which the bill was advocated soon showed that there was some kind of a combination in its favor. It is alleged that Colonel Phil Thompson and a certain Mr. Butz, formerly a congressman from the south, have organized a lobby for the bill, and the savage opponents of it do not neglect to call attention to the fact that whereas Mr. Butz "was a carpetbag congressman in the darkest days of reconstruction he is now a frantic Democrat in the northwest and is posing as such before the committee. Colonel Redstone only comes in incidentally, but having very little confidence in the Butz combine he has had a bill of his own introduced. He was a settler on the border of the Sequoia park in California, and when the reservation was made it took in his land. He claims that the land was legally open to settlement when he took it, that the troops drove him off with circumstances of aggravation, and that his implements of improvement were a total loss.

Since these facts have transpired some people think that was the main cause of his becoming a crank. It is chiefly of interest now because everything relating to Coxey and his lieutenants is eagerly read. The committee is at present disposed to favor the bill securing right of contest, but the battle of the opposing interests continues in the intervals of the tariff debate. Senators Kyle and Pettigrew have introduced bills for sending out an agent or commission to decide each case on its merits.

Another bill before this committee provides for selling all the desert lands, and still another proposes government aid to the states and territories to reclaim them. The bill introduced and supported by Senator Dolph provides for a rather radical change in the whole public land system and makes special provisions for protecting all forests not owned by the government.

WANTED TO BE KICKED.

He Was on the Make, but He Got Caught All the Same.

It was evident that something had gone wrong with an oldish man who came in on a Lake Shore train from Toledo yesterday. He looked all around the depot until he found a policeman and then began to unburden himself by saying:

"I want you to look at this Canadian $10 bill."

"Yes, sir," replied the officer as he reached for it. "I don't see much Canadian money, but I shouldn't care to take this bill for a good one. Have you asked any one about it?"

"The conductor said it was bad."

"Let's see the ticket agent."

They walked over to the window, to be told that it was not even a good counterfeit, and the officer asked of the stranger:

"Did you take it for good money?"

"Say! How easy it is for a man to make a fool of himself!" exclaimed the other. "I thought I knew enough to fall off a fence when the top rail broke, but I don't. I haven't got the sense of a barn door. I ought to be sent to an idiot asylum for a term of five years."

"How did it happen?" queried the officer.

"A chap came into my car and asked me if I could give him change for a $5 bill. That is the bill. He had on goggles and seemed to have sore eyes, and I took it that he thought the 10 was a 5."

"Chance to make $5!" laughed the officer.

"Of course. I'm an honest man, but I couldn't let that chance slip. I counted him out five ones in greenbacks and put this in my pocket. After he got off at Wyandotte I began to be suspicious and showed the bill to the conductor. Ever hear of the trick before?"

"About a hundred times."

"And I've been takin a daily paper for 15 years and am accounted the sharpest man who takes in our town! Went right at it and beat myself with my eyes wide open. Say, have you got a machine around here?"

"What sort of a machine?"

"A kicking machine—one that runs by steam—2,000 horsepower—kicks 1,000 times a minute—lifts a blamed fool 20 feet high at every kick!"

The officer had to tell him that no such machine had yet been invented, though inquired for almost every day, and the man went off up Jefferson avenue to see if he couldn't find a beer wagon to run over him.—Detroit Free Press.

Elevating.

He drew her closer.

"Dearest," he whispered, "don't you think that in our love we have risen above our former selves?"

She snuggled trustingly.

"I am sure of it," she answered enthusiastically. "I never in my life lived above the third story before we were married."

And as they sat thus and communed they plainly heard the elevator boy as he paused without their door exclaim:

"Eleven!"—Detroit Tribune.

General Review.

There was a perceptible improvement in the market this morning and many of the stocks were in demand. It was not [illegible] before a price which was [illegible] began to manifest [illegible] and before noon there was a strong [illegible] for Union. This stock opened yesterday morning at 14½, but rose rapidly with a strong demand. When it began to rise so rapidly it increased as a [illegible] and before the close of the day [illegible] was held at 20 with but little in sight. One sale was reported of 5,000 shares at 20 while not a few brought [illegible] It is held among the brokers that [illegible] will reach the quarter. Tuesday night a block of 50,000 passed from George Carter to Messrs. Sill, Bassett & Sill. This in connection with an un-authorized report from a very fine car of ore which was shipped to Denver influenced the market largely. Aside from the large block of stock purchased by Messrs. Sill, Bassett & Sill the number of shares that changed hands amounted to only 20,000 and for the demand was considered scarce. Union has shipped eight cars of ore this week [illegible] Anaconda was in considerable [illegible] [illegible] Bankers [illegible] [illegible] was a little weak and Golden [illegible] was firm later in the day. Work was strong at 1 and Jack Pot steady [illegible] but little movement at 2¼ and 2½. [illegible] is a little stiffer since the payment [illegible] a week ago and is considered [illegible]. There was some inquiry for [illegible], but there is not much being [illegible]. Mt. Rosa shows a slight decline [illegible] Virginia M. is inquired after at [illegible] and 3½. The total amount of sales for the day amounted to 81,756 shares.

An Interesting Circular.

A circular and prospectus of the Golden Ridge Mining company of Balfour which has its headquarters at Boston, was received by a gentleman in this city yesterday. We give a few excerpts from them:

"We take pleasure in sending you herewith enclosed a prospectus of the Golden Ridge Mining company of Balfour, Park county, Colorado, and invite a careful reading of same in view of investing in the company's stock which is now offered the public for the first time at the low price of 30c per share, only one-fifth of its par value, to which price the stock will be advanced in the near future. The property of the Golden Ridge Mining company consists of a full government mining claim, fifteen hundred feet in length by three hundred feet wide and covering an extent of ten acres of ground, which we own free of all incumbrance by a good and sufficient title. It is located at the town of Balfour in the Hartsel Mining

Union and Anaconda were both in very strong demand yesterday.

District in Park county, Colorado, lying directly west of and adjoining the famous Cripple Creek district, now accounted as the most wonderful gold camp in the world."

The above be interesting to the readers of The Gazette who know that there is nothing in Balfour that can be given the dignity of a mine, and that the claims there are as yet merely prospects. Although the camp is undeveloped and what it may be in the future is unknown yet there is stock in plenty of Cripple Creek companies that have several paying mines and patented claims that can be bought all the way from 2 to 15 cents.

New Balfour Company Incorporated.

Articles of incorporation of The Balfour Gold Mining, Milling and Land company were filed to day with the secretary of state authorizing them to do business in Park county and other counties of the State, by A. L. Lawton, J. M. Ellison, S. L. Boyer and B. Zevely. The capital stock is $1,000,000 of $1 non-assessable shares and the principal office is to be Colorado Springs.

Part of Little Cleo Sold.

Pueblo, May 2.—Prentiss Smith, son of Judge Smith has sold a one-eighth interest in the Little Cleo lode in the Cripple Creek district. The lode is located on the Colorado Midland, three miles southwest of Florissant.

Professor Sadler, who is well known as a metallurgist throughout the west, has just made an investigation of the Balfour district. He says the district presents admirable advantages for prospecting. There is mineral and lots of it. He says it is in the same triangle as Cripple Creek. The ore does not lie so near the surface as in Gilpin and some of the older counties, but the veins will be larger and better defined than in these older counties. He examined two claims of the new Balfour Gold Mining, Milling and Land company and says the formations are rich and will undoubtedly show up well with development.
